PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Hello Katydids and Friends!

So . . . what do you think of our new dance hall? Sure better than dancing in the parking lot, that is for sure! Don't know about you, but I will be VERY glad when we can stop using our masks.

Last Friday we were delighted to help Tillie celebrate his 102nd birthday. Many thanks to Janna who arranged for the cake which for some reason just could not hold the "102" candles upright, to Morris who made up a giant card that we all signed (by the way, the card will be there the next two Fridays if you didn't get a chance to sign it last week), and to all who helped move tables and chairs around.

Surprise, surprise! Char showed up to help celebrate. She is still recuperating from her knee surgery this summer but even though she can't dance just yet, she did want to wish our birthday guy the best! It was also great to see Lisa and Bob whom we haven't seen for awhile.

Bea is continues to mend from her back surgery. I understand that she has healed enough to begin physical therapy. We're thinking of you, Bea!!

Tuesday I learned that our friend Joan Bugado fell and spent a night at Kaiser for observation and returned home the next day.

SAVE THE DATE: Friday, October 29th we will be having our annual Halloween Costume Party dance. Time to get your costume outfit ready!!

Several of you have asked for Roger Smith's new address: 12653 Bridgewater Ave., Eastvale, CA92880 email: SqDRoger@gmail.com

Morris sent us a collection of various 2022 calendars. He and Louise get them from the charities they support and they can only use one. I will bring them on Friday nights. First come, first served!

FOUND: Clear water bottle with green chug-type lid.

I want to thank the dancers who have been donating above and beyond the requested amount. The donations have been variously specified to go to the dance hall, caller, or general fund. We are VERY grateful for your thoughtfulness.

Stephanie

HISTORY OF THE SALVATION ARMY

William Booth embarked upon his ministerial career in 1852, desiring to win the lost multitudes of England to Christ. He walked the streets of London to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ to the poor, the homeless, the hungry, and the destitute.

Booth abandoned the conventional concept of a church and a pulpit, instead taking his message to the people. His fervor led to disagreement with church leaders in London, who preferred traditional methods. As a result, he withdrew from the church and traveled throughout England, conducting evangelistic meetings. His wife, Catherine, could accurately be called a cofounder of The Salvation Army.

In 1865, William Booth was invited to hold a series of evangelistic meetings in the East End of London. He set up a tent in a Quaker graveyard, and his services became an instant success. This proved to be the end of his wanderings as an independent traveling evangelist. His renown as a religious leader spread throughout London, and he attracted followers who were dedicated to fight for the souls of men and women.

Thieves, prostitutes, gamblers, and drunkards were among Booth's first converts to Christianity. To congregations who were desperately poor, he preached hope and salvation. His aim was to lead people to Christ and link them to a church for further spiritual guidance.

Many churches, however, did not accept Booth's followers because of their past. So Booth continued giving his new converts spiritual direction, challenging them to save others like themselves. Soon, they too were preaching and singing in the streets as a living testimony to the power of God.

In 1867, Booth had only 10 full-time workers, but by 1874, the number had grown to 1,000 volunteers and 42 evangelists, all serving under the name "The Christian Mission." Booth assumed the title of general superintendent, with his followers calling him "General." Known as the "Hallelujah Army," the converts spread out of the East End of London into neighboring areas and then to other cities.

Booth was reading a printer's proof of the 1878 annual report when he noticed the statement "The Christian Mission is a volunteer army." Crossing out the words "volunteer army," he penned in "Salvation Army." From those words came the basis of the foundation deed of The Salvation Army.

From that point, converts became soldiers of Christ and were known then, as now, as Salvationists. They launched an offensive throughout the British Isles, in some cases facing real battles as organized gangs mocked and attacked them. In spite of violence and persecution, some 250,000 people were converted under the ministry of The Salvation Army between 1881 and 1885.

Meanwhile, the Army was gaining a foothold in the United States. Lieutenant Eliza Shirley had left England to join her parents, who had migrated to America earlier in search for work. In 1879, she held the first meeting of The Salvation Army in America, in Philadelphia. The Salvationists were received enthusiastically. Shirley wrote to General Booth, begging for reinforcements. None were available at first. Glowing reports of the work in Philadelphia, however, eventually convinced Booth, in 1880, to send an official group to pioneer the work in America.

On March 10, 1880, Commissioner George Scott Raiton and seven women officers knelt on the dockside at Battery Park in New York City to give thanks for their safe arrival. At their first official street meeting, these pioneers were met with unfriendly actions, as had happened in Great Britain. They were ridiculed, arrested, and attacked. Several officers and soldiers even gave their lives. Three years later, Raiton and other Salvationists had expanded their operation into California, Connecticut, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. President Grover Cleveland received a delegation of Salvation Army officers in 1886 and gave the organization a warm personal endorsement. This was the first recognition from the White House and would be followed by similar receptions from succeeding presidents.

Not listed in the article: The Salvation Army tries to help with the needs of the community by having Adult rehabilitation centers, hospitals, hotels, shelters, orphanages, schools, and more. Most of the Salvation Army "units" are known as Corps - where there are local Salvation Army officers/pastors such as Shoshannah and Celestine Ruwethin who are both pastors and oversee the work at the Santa Clara Citadel.
